Critical buckling shear strains as function of (a) tube chirality, (b) tube diameter, and (c) aspect ratio. Note that the maximum difference between the critical buckling strains of two loading directions may be up to 85%.